CMSWIRE

We use cookies to improve your experience, analyze traffic and personalize content. See our Privacy Policy for details. Learn More

Deny

Accept

FEATURE

Microsoft 'Shared Source' Licenses Officially Go Open Source

OCTOBER 18, 2007 | OPEN SOURCE CMS

By Angela Natividad

SHARE   SAVE

Automation without a playbook? ˉ as a kind of gatekeeper for Open Source Definition and its license review process. In July, the collective officially approved Socialtext's Common Public Attribution License after nine months. Formal evaluation of Microsoft Public License (Ms-PL) and Microsoft Reciprocal License (Ms-RL) began in August.

About the Author

Angela Natividad is a compulsive communicator with thoughts on advertising, technology and life. Today she is VP-Marketing at hypios.com, in-house ad critic at Vanksen's Culture-Buzz.com, and co-hostess of AdVerve, a podcast about the culture of advertising. Connect with Angela Natividad:

Tags

| open source initiative	osi	socialtext	cpal	microsoft	shared source
microsoft public license		microsoft reciprocal license		ms-pl	ms-rl

A practical guide

Read now

RESEARCH REPOR

How Leading Co
Drive Innovatio

The New CX Playb

Read now

RESEARCH REPOR

Websites 2025:

Strategies to tran
innovation in an A

Read now

CASE STUDY

Using Personali

51% increase in c

Read now

○ ○

VIEW ALL RESEARCH

Most Read Today

NEWS

PRESS

OPEN SOURCE CMS

Magnolia 6.2 Released, Two TYPO3 Releases Available, and More Open Source News

FEATURE

OPEN SOURCE CMS

The Consequences of a Changing Open-Source Software Business Model

NEWS

OPEN SOURCE CMS

We use cookies to improve your experience, analyze traffic and personalize content. See our Privacy Policy for details. Learn More

Deny

Accept

community of digital customer experience professionals.

Today the CMSWire community consists of over 5 million influential customer experience, customer service and digital experience leaders, the majority of whom are based in North America and employed by medium to large organizations.

Our sister community, Reworked, gathers the world's leading employee experience and digital workplace professionals. And our newest community, VKTR, is home for AI practitioners and forward thinking leaders focused on the business of enterprise AI.

JOIN THE COMMUNITY

Email address	JOIN US

GET THE CMSWIRE MOBILE APP

Privacy | Terms | Contact | Sitemap | Advertising